

Transition Worksheet

Part 1: Follow the transition with a complete thought.

1. My car is burning oil; yet,
2. Granted, the professor was smart; still,
3. The boy took a candy bar from the store; furthermore,
4. My cousin is smart; consequently,
5. I don't like dogs at all; however,
6. I love baseball; in fact,
7. he is a good student; moreover,
8. I hate to read; nevertheless,
9. To be sure, she is one of the best authorities on the subject of math; on the other hand,

Part 2: Fill in the blank with the proper transition.

1. I love pets; _____, I hate cleaning up after them.
2. Carla worked only one day last week; _____, she got a small paycheck.
3. I didn't call home when I stayed out with my friends past curfew; _____, my mom grounded me for a month.
4. I studied diligently for the test; _____, I aced it.
5. He is a brain; _____, he is probably one of the most intelligent people on the face of the earth.
6. He is a brain when it comes to book-learning; _____, he is not very smart when it comes to common sense.
7. I nagged and nagged him to finish his homework; _____, he went upstairs to finish it.
8. She runs five miles daily; _____, she tends to be healthy.
9. I dislike math; _____, I study hard so that I might succeed in it.
10. I enjoy observing the various nuances in a basketball game; _____, Keith enjoys observing the peculiarities of a soccer game.
11. He doesn't waste days sitting in front of the TV; _____, he spends most of his free time in the fresh air of the outdoor.