

Use of these structural members to form frames are called space frames. They consist of members that rest on the ground. In fact, most, but not all, bridges are actually space frames.

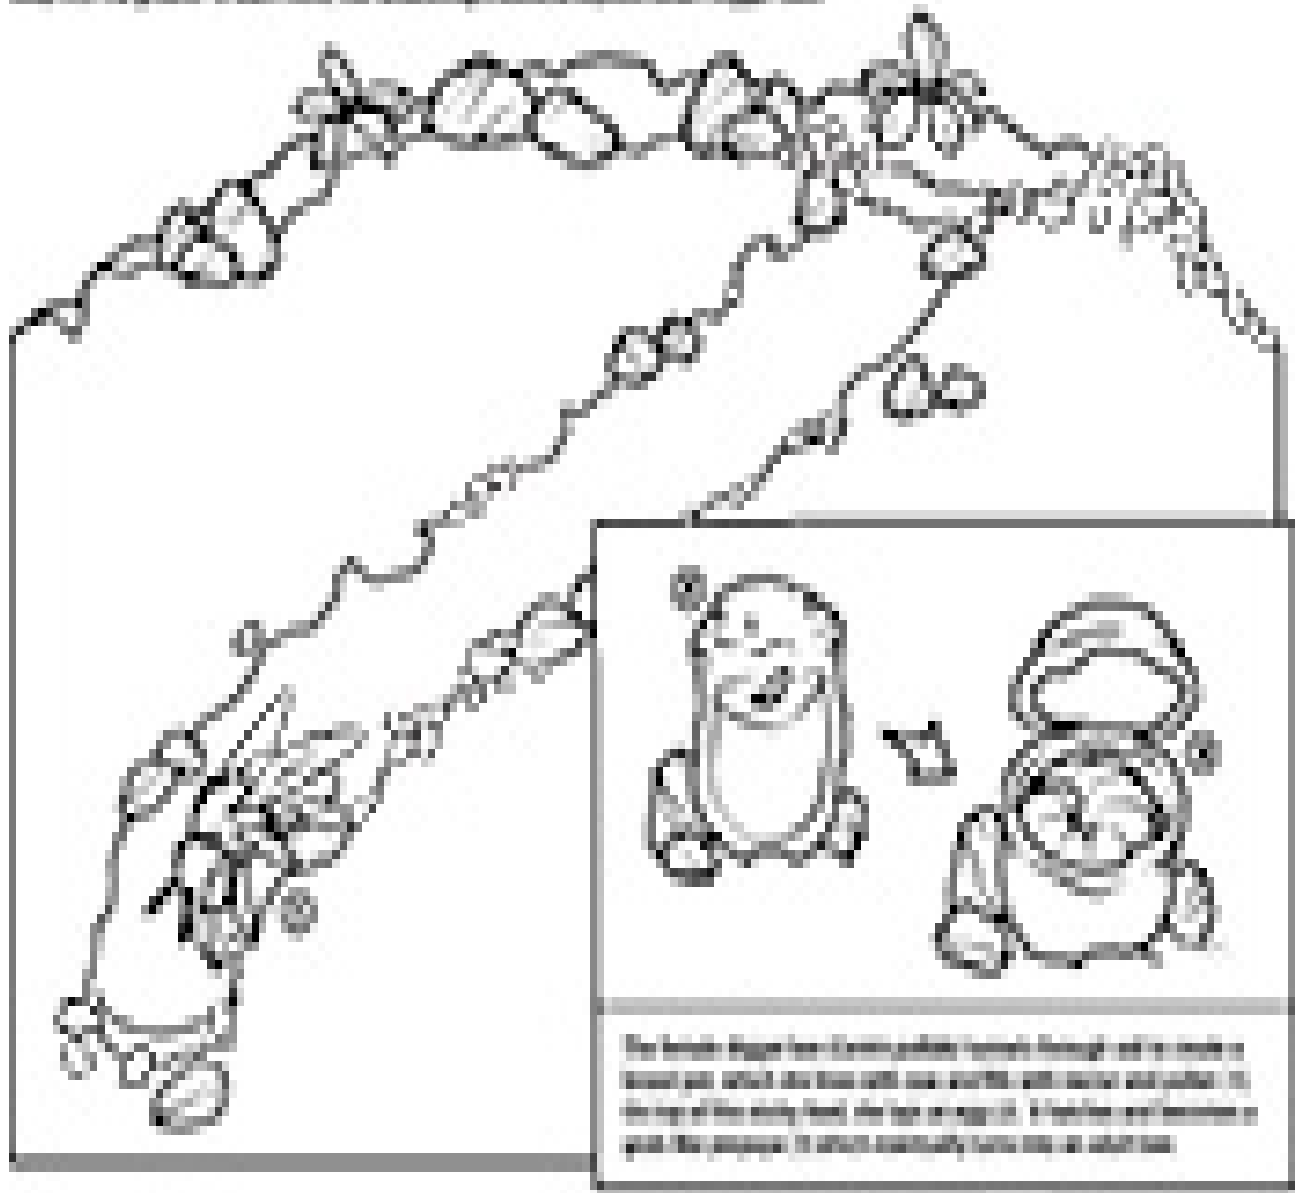

Fig. 1. Bridge structure. (a) The bridge structure is a space frame. (b) The bridge structure is a space frame.