

Grumpy likes to grow fruits and vegetables in his garden. His favorite vegetable to plant is the carrot. One day, Grumpy was picking some carrots for dinner when she saw a honey bee flying in the garden. The honey looked at Grumpy and asked,

"Can I please have a carrot to give to my baby bees?"

Grumpy only had six carrots left in the garden. She was going to have a big dinner with Grandpa and their two friends, Jay and Beth. Grumpy didn't have what to do.

"I have not seen you around my garden, and I don't even know you", Grumpy said.

"Well," said the honey, "I did not want to bother you, but your carrots look so tasty and fresh!"

"You are a very nice honey," said Grumpy. "So nice about I give you the carrots that you and your friends can eat. I will make sure to plant a few more