

My Sister

My sister Danielle is one of the funniest people I know. She always cracks me up with her witty jokes. She's two 2 years older than me but doesn't always treat me like a constant annoyance like you might expect of sisters our age.

Danielle has big, dark brown eyes and dyed black hair, shaped into a long bob. She has pale skin with small, red lips and a small, pointy nose. When I was younger she was my idol and we were more or less best friends. We've always been relatively close and stuck up for each other when people have been nasty. Danielle is very funny and witty. She's really clever but not very confident, although she's always been determined.

One of the best and funniest times I've had with Danielle is probably when we were younger. Once she was cleaning up in the lounge and my mum had just changed my little sister's nappy, a bit of poop had fallen out and Danielle thought that it was a Malteser so she licked it!

Or another time was when we used to play with my mums make up and go through her stuff, I'll never forget watching Danielle parading round in a
