

Teacher's Notes

- ① Build a shared history: Encourage students to share their personal stories about their families, traditions, and cultural backgrounds. This can help them feel connected to the broader community and build a sense of belonging. It also allows them to learn from each other.
  - ② Learn your family's history: Work with your parents or grandparents to research your family's history. This can include learning about your ancestors' names, where they came from, and any significant events that occurred during their lifetime. You can also interview older relatives to gather more information.
  - ③ Share your family's history: Once you have learned about your family's history, share it with your class. You can do this through a presentation, a written report, or a group discussion. This will help your classmates understand the diversity of your culture and appreciate the richness of your family's history.
  - ④ Participate in family traditions: Participate in traditional family activities such as cooking, baking, or playing games. These activities can help you learn more about your culture and connect with your family members.
  - ⑤ Volunteer at local cultural events: Look for opportunities to volunteer at local cultural events such as festivals, parades, or performances. This will allow you to interact with people from different backgrounds and learn more about their cultures.
  - ⑥ Participate in the Family Reunion: If your family has a tradition of holding a annual reunion, consider participating. This is a great way to meet other family members and learn more about your family's history.
  - ⑦ Get involved in your school's multicultural club: Many schools have clubs that celebrate different cultures. Consider joining one of these clubs to learn more about your culture and connect with other students who share similar interests.
  - ⑧ Participate in the Family Reunion: If your family has a tradition of holding a annual reunion, consider participating. This is a great way to meet other family members and learn more about your family's history.
  - ⑨ Participate in the Family Reunion: If your family has a tradition of holding a annual reunion, consider participating. This is a great way to meet other family members and learn more about your family's history.
  - ⑩ Participate in the Family Reunion: If your family has a tradition of holding a annual reunion, consider participating. This is a great way to meet other family members and learn more about your family's history.

10

This section provides an overview of the following module. It shows what you can expect to learn by completing this module. This section also lists the skills you will need to have learned before starting this module. It also includes a brief summary of the module's objectives.

For example, the last sentence of the first section of "The Art of War" is: "Therefore, the wise general does not seek to force his way through; he rather tries to avoid the enemy's strength."

It is also true that the army "feels" it is not so much the ultimate weapon as the last resort, the ultimate measure of all other measures.

Year	Number of new cases	Number of new deaths
2000-2001	1,000	100
2001-2002	1,000	100

Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism • Volume 126, Number 10, October 2013
© 2013 The Authors
Journal compilation © 2013 Endocrine Society

John W. Dickey
University of California, Berkeley