

The Final Days

Circle the correct answer in each question.

1. While at Appomattox Courthouse, was it Ulysses S. Grant or Robert E. Lee who said, "I would rather die a thousand deaths than surrender?"
2. Because telegraphs, trains, and armored ships were used, is the Civil War sometimes called the First Modern War or the Great War?
3. Was it John Wilkes Booth or Lee Harvey Oswald who assassinated President Lincoln five days after Lee's surrender?
4. Was the first or the thirteenth amendment passed soon after the war to end slavery in the United States?
5. Was the Freedmen's Bureau or the Red Cross set up to give freed slaves food, supplies, and education after the war?
6. Was the time used for rebuilding the nation after the Civil War called Rebuilding or Reconstruction?
7. In order to rejoin the Union, which of the following did each Southern state have to do: give all men the right to vote or pay the Union a fine?
8. Were Southerners who supported the government after the war often called carpetbaggers or scalawags by other Southerners?
9. Did carpetbaggers or scalawags move to the South after the war to buy land and make money?
10. Did Reconstruction or segregation in the South take away many rights and freedoms African Americans had just won?

Before the war, our nation was divided. Our country's unofficial motto, E Pluribus Unum, is about how important it is to be united as a country.

To find out what E Pluribus Unum means, write each circled boldfaced letter from above on its matching numbered line or lines below.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

