

Task: Insert punctuation, including semicolons, where necessary in the following sentences.

My head stopped hurting all pain had disappeared I felt relieved.

In a last desperate act I ran for the door and pushed it as hard as I could I was finally free.

Drying my eyes I looked out the window there in the distance I could see the soldiers speeding towards me.

I turned to leave the house for the last time I had spent many happy years there so I was reluctant to go.

The brown leather of the boots scratched at my hands as I tried to pull them off the boots no longer felt comfortable and warm.