I made this set to work with my 8 year girl on building interesting sentences. Here are my plans for them:

- + The first couple of pages are filled with ideas. She'll go through and create sentences (silly or not) in her journal.
- + Next we'll work together to brainstorm ideas for ones of the other themed sheets. Again she'll go on to write sentences (silly or not) in her writing journal.
- + Finally, I hope she'll be able to brainstorm on her own ones from these sheets and use them to write fun or serious sentences.
- + I plan to encourage her to add adjectives and descriptive words to the round subject words.
- + I doubt we'll use all of these sheets (who knows?) but I wanted alot of choice to pique her interest.

Build-A-Sentence: Fall Theme

Who? (subject noun)	What? (verb)	When?	Where?
The squirrel	ran quickly	in the late afternoon	in the park
The girl	fell from the tree	at dawn	in my backyard
The leaves	gathered up	earliest this morning	in the woods
The grass	stunk by	after breakfast	in Tennessee
The crows	landed in the yellow fields	as the sun set	near my Grandpa's house
The acorns	jumped in the leaves	last fall	in a cornfield
A large fox	put on a jacket	at midnight	on a farm
My brother	squeaked loudly	during the race	on the moon
The deer	turned yellow	when the alarm sounded	near the stream
