

City Journal

Wednesday diary

Day 1

Date: 24/09/2008

I' stop at new school

I am so excited because it is my first day at an English school. I wonder how different it is to a German school? I wonder what the food and the people will be like. All the English tourists that have come to Germany have been kind and friendly. I have made a friend his name is Jack from next door and he goes to the new school. I should be okay now I have one person.

The house I have moved into is in Kensington and is really nice. It is a three bed roomed house, whereas before I only used to have a three bed roomed apartment. It has a separate living room. Before I had used to eat in front of the telly. The area is nice but is very busy, because it is in central London. Sometimes I think to myself why am I here in England? Then I remember that man, fell in love with an English businessman and he got a promotion to London. I think it is disgusting that men and like are together but I get loads of presents so I am happy. Tomorrow my mum and I were into West London to buy my new uniform, my books and