

How to Draw a British Royal Palace Guard

Start with a stick figure to get the height and proportions right. (Do not draw the hat or uniform yet). the shoulders are wide and the feet are slightly apart. the right arm is slightly bent. Draw a guideline for the weapon around the stick figure draw the form of a man.

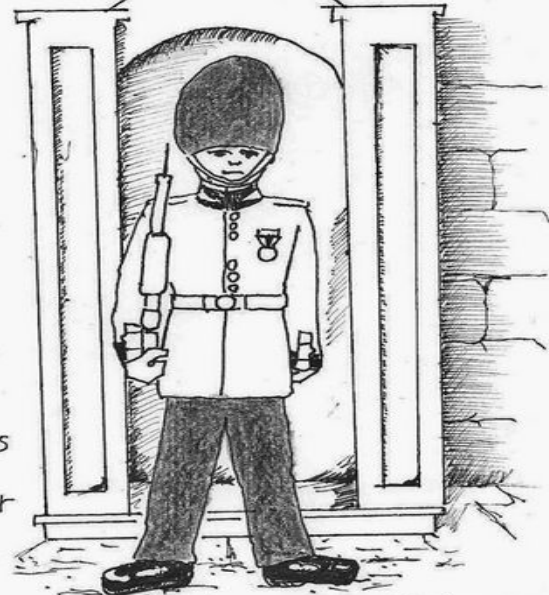

the Jacket has a white belt at the middle slightly above the waist. the collar has decorations like leaves, but if it is too small it is ok to represent them with triangles. the sleeves have black cuffs with three white squares going up the sleeves. One hand is almost hidden by the sleeve just draw a line for the fingers turing in. the fingers of the hand holding the weapon look like the letter "C" lying down a little. the shoes are very black and shiny; draw an out line for the shiny spots before you color them in.

the strap goes over the chin

keep the face simple. the hat covers the eyebrows.
