

Romeo and Juliet: Act I

Scene V

Text 1

Romeo and Juliet is a love melodrama written by William Shakespeare. The plot is about a forbidden love between the Montagues and the Capulets. Romeo is a Montague and Juliet is a Capulet. Their love leads to their deaths. The story ends with Romeo and Juliet's deaths, however, reports in the end of their deaths. This is known as a Shakespearean tragedy, because tragedies usually involve separation and death, and this play has a lot to do with that – Romeo and Juliet die, and Romeo being separated from Juliet as he is banished from Verona. Shakespeare has so complete how so successful the play very clearly, since Romeo and Juliet that meet in this scene. The structure of this scene would have better effect on how the story of the play is portrayed.

Text 2

The scene that is discussed is Act I, Scene 5 – the scene in which Romeo and Juliet first meet and fall in love. Just after, they've both fallen deep in love with each other, their first love isn't supposed to be denied. Another sign of it when Tybalt sees Romeo and wants to fight him, but he is stopped by Capulet. I think an important part of this scene is how Romeo and Juliet's love connects with Tybalt anger and how in the same scene. When Romeo first sees Juliet, he uses a metaphor when speaking to her "She doth teach the torches to burn bright." This shows the reader that Juliet's beauty is far brighter than even the torches, so she is gorgeous. She is so bright that she teaches the torches how to shine, since torches can't be taught on how to shine. When Romeo says the same thing it could mean that her beauty shines through but it could also mean that's better than though Romeo feels guilty for Juliet's. "...this too bright, the gentle air it whets... smooths... rough... rough... with a gentle kiss...". When Romeo first sees the chance to speak to Juliet, he compares her hand to a "fair star" (Tybalt's) and he compares his feet to a "plague" that can "infect" even the "rough... rough" of his "beard" – a "tender" kiss. When we see Romeo (R) "gentle" could mean that he's "gentle" because, "R" is considered the opposite of "tender". Juliet's response to saying "Good night, you do wrong your heavenly music... you do pain to hold patterns" etc. Juliet describes that when you hold hands, it is the right kind of kiss for playing. Also, it seems
