

Most people use money to pay for goods and services. Many people who don't have money with them will barter. This allows them to get what they want without using money. When you barter, you are trading one thing for another. Go to page 267 and read the two paragraphs. Fill in the graphic organizer.

What would you rather do... use money or barter to get what you want?