

Common Prepositions

Name: _____

Every sentence has to have a subject (a person or thing) and a verb (what that person or thing does.) But a really good sentence has more than just a single subject and verb. Other kinds of words help make the sentence more exciting. A preposition can tell us more about where the subject is, and when the subject is doing something.

Many of the prepositions that we use a lot are prepositions that tell where. Others give us more information about the subject.

Use the common prepositions from the word bank to complete the sentences.

Word Bank

to from in out on off for of by with

- 1) The princess lives _____ the castle.
- 2) I bought some milk _____ the grocery store.
- 3) My sister sat _____ my room _____ the bus.
- 4) When we got ready for dinner, I had to take my books _____ the table.
- 5) Every Wednesday, we put the beach cars _____.
- 6) My dad always drinks a glass _____ milk before bed to help him sleep.
- 7) The thing I enjoy most about the holidays is playing _____ my cousins.
- 8) Next year I will be old enough to walk _____ school by myself.
- 9) Please leave your shoes _____ the door when you come in.
- 10) Our dog kept going _____ and _____ of the house, and he sat _____ the door when I finally closed it.