

Tyrannosaurus

The 'King' of dinosaurs was the Tyrannosaurus. This giant meat-eater measured 45 feet when walking on its two back legs. It also had large, strong jaws and many sharp teeth.

Anatosaurus

The Anatosaurus was a large plant-eating dinosaur. It had a long, wide mouth that resembled a duck bill. These dinosaurs lived near or in the water, where their webbed feet made them good swimmers.

Ankylosaurus

The Ankylosaurus was a plant-eater that was very well protected from its enemies. Its body was almost completely covered with a hard, bony armor. It had long, sharp spikes down its sides and a powerful club-like tail.
