

Our Brave Friend, Dr. King

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a great leader. Long ago, African Americans were not treated equally. They did not have the same rights that other Americans had. Dr. King did not think this was fair and wanted to make a change. He gave speeches in front of large crowds and led peaceful protests in the streets. He organized a bus boycott in Montgomery, Alabama because he did not think it was right that African Americans had to sit in the back of the bus. His peaceful leadership and famous "I Have a Dream" speech helped change the United States. Leaders created new laws that made sure everyone was treated equally. Thank you Dr. King for being so brave!
