

Different types of writing

The text extracts below could have come from any of the following types of writing: instructions, explanations, poems, folk tales, novels, informative, or arguments. Read each extract, then decide which type of writing it is.

Stop! Before you throw anything away, think ...

.....

The old miller knew he had not long to live so ...

.....

If the water is added gradually to the powder in the test tube, then ...

.....

Thus, the water evaporates and returns to the atmosphere.

.....

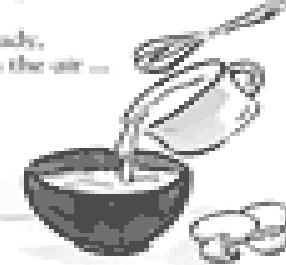

That peculiar person from Putney!

.....

The day was warm, though cloudy,
and I noticed a strange scent in the air ...

.....

a blue-grey day
a Saturday

.....

Surely you must realize that ...

.....

Add the beaten egg ...

.....

The second planet from the Sun is called ...

.....

Choose one of the above extracts that comes from a fiction book. Imagine what the rest of the paragraph might look like, and write a draft version on a separate sheet of paper. Then write the finished paragraph below.

Remember: Fiction means text that was invented by the writer.

If you want to, do the same thing by choosing an extract from a non-fiction book.

Write the paragraph on a separate sheet of paper.

Remember: Non-fiction means that the information in the piece of writing is factual.