

Question

in 1988, why did Japan's new constitution fail to gain widespread support? (after a 99% approval rate)

None of these

Japan's economy at the time was in a state of stagnation

It was too late to be implemented

It was too late to be implemented

It was too late to be implemented

None of these

The first round of the 1988 election was a landslide for the Liberal Democratic Party

It was too late to be implemented

None of these

Because of the increase in the number of seats in 1988, the Liberal Democratic Party's support was reduced

None of these

It was too late to be implemented

None of these

It was too late to be implemented

None of these

It was too late to be implemented

None of these in 1988, the Liberal Democratic Party's support was reduced