

Complete with "on", "at" or "in"

The first time I met her was ____ 10 o'clock ____ a Wednesday ____ May, ____ 1993, I think. Actually, it might have been ____ April. I know it was ____ spring, anyway. And maybe it was ____ 11 o'clock, but it was definitely ____ the morning, not ____ night as it was later reported ____ TV and ____ the newspapers. We were ____ a bus ____ Bournemouth, a city ____ the South coast of England. The bus had been waiting ____ the traffic lights for a long time because the traffic was blocked by an accident ____ the street, ____ the corner, in fact. She had a smile ____ her face and a twinkle ____ her eye and no ring ____ her finger, so I started talking.

The next time we met was ____ Christmas, ____ Christmas Day. We were ____ a party. She was ____ the telephone when I saw her. I sat down ____ her left and said hello to the dog which lay ____ her feet. While she talked, I looked ____ a picture ____ the wall. There was a mountain ____ the background and a crowd of people ____ the front.

Suddenly there was a knock ____ the door. It was the police. Her sister was ____ hospital again. We left. It was a long journey, first ____ a train, then ____ a taxi.