

Contents

Preface	xiii
Chapter 1 · Behavioral Family Therapy: An Overview	3
Relationships Behaviorists Focus On	3
Basic Assumptions/Principles	3
Behavior Is the Focus of Therapy	3
Behavior Is Learned	4
Behavior Can Change	4
New Behavior Must Be Shaped	4
New Behavior Must Be Reinforced Immediately	4
Four Rules of Learning	5
Reward Rule	5
Negative Reinforcement Rule	5
Punishment Rule	6
Extinction Rule	6
The Nuts and Bolts of Behavioral Family Therapy	7
Baseline Data	7
Behavior Contracting	8
Time Out as a Negative Consequence	9
Verbal Praise and Parental Consistency Are Essential	9
The Process of Therapy	10
Building Rapport	10
Having Parents Complete the Family Inventory	10
Defining Behaviors to Increase or Decrease	10
Explaining to Parents How the Behavior to Be Changed Has Been Learned	11
Ranking Behaviors Parents Want Their Children to Change	11
Identifying Rewards and Punishers as Consequences for Behavior	11
Writing Up a Contract and Giving a Chart to Parents to Keep Records	11
Discussing/Role Playing Implementation of Contract with the Child	11
Resistances	12
“It Isn’t Working”	12
“It’s Bribery”	12
“My Kid Should Do as I Say”	13
Chapter 2 · Assessment and Behavior Contracts	15
Importance of Rapport during Assessment	15
Stages of Assessment	16
Initial Questions	16
History of Previous Interventions	16
ABC (Antecedents, Behaviors, and Consequences) Records	16
Parental Reaction to Record Keeping Request	17
Reviewing ABC Reports with Parents	17