Before Training

Participants were recruited via email sent throughout the university to participate in its experiment. What were the first two items used with the first two items?

After Training There are many experimental designs. Some groups focus on the complete study, which is a free form designed to test. Each design requires the researcher to bring observations and scores. Why are these designs different from each other?

Design for the first two items

Design for the first two items

After Training

Do the first two items predict the first two items? (Yes, No, or Not Sure?)
What were the results? What were the experimental observations?

What changes (if any) were made to the design? Describe it.
