Making Inferences 3

Directions: Read each passage and then respond to the questions. Each question will ask you to make a logical inference based on textual details. Explain your answer by referencing the text.

Chloe was upset that the teacher made the new hat sit with him. He liked to sit by himself, and he didn't want to make any friends. While the teacher was passing out papers, the new kid made the first move. "Hi, my name is Sean." Chloe replied hesitantly. "That's nice," without looking up from the notebook on which he was doodling. Sean paid Chloe's lack of interest no mind. Instead, he stole a glance at the notebook on which Chloe was doodling. Sean noticed that Chloe was drawing a picture with skulls on it. Sean asked politely, "What's your favorite book?" Chloe ignored him. Sean continued, "My favorite book is The Lord of the Rings." Chloe looked up at him for the first time. "Hello, Sean, my name is Chloe. I believe that we are going to be great friends." Sean smiled.

During the California Gold Rush of 1849, the world's supply of gold was fast dwindling, and hundreds of thousands of people flocked to California to find their share. The state was popped up to accommodate the visitors. A boomtown is a community that receives visitors and experiences growth and development. San Francisco had around two hundred residents in 1846, and about 36,000 in 1852. The few residents in these boomtowns would trade for more than ten times what they could get back then. For example, a single pound of flour sold for as much as $17. But everyone who joined in the California Gold Rush got rich, but most of the boomtowns never lasted that long.
