

Grief is the jagged edge that surprises you when you think you've swept the tears away and the glint of light when you see the sun, even just for a second.

- Jessica Watson