

Name: _____

An Adverb Can Tell When

Adverbs give us more information about the verb (action) in a sentence. They can tell us when something happened, or is happening.

Here are some adverbs that tell when something is/was done:

first	now	then	yesterday	today
soon	tomorrow	early	recently	sometimes once	late	lately	suddenly	never

Complete each sentence with an adverb that makes sense.

- I wanted to go to the movie _____ but there wasn't time.
- My mom likes to wake up _____ in the morning.
- My entire family _____ celebrates Christmas at home.
- My grandparent are coming _____ and will stay with us for a week!
- The librarian has been busy _____ reshelving all the books.
- The storm came on so _____ that there was no time to prepare.
- If we get in the car right _____ we can make it there on time.
- The travel channel _____ has some interesting shows.
- My father went to Europe _____ when he was in the Navy.
- She went to the store _____ and then the post office.
- Cheating on tests is _____ allowed.
- Can you come over _____ , or do we need to reschedule?
- Our vacation will be here _____ , and we can hardly wait.
- Have you heard from her _____ , or has it been a while?