

N	It's never too late or too early to be nurtured and nurtured in reading - no showing please!
O	One person taking the opportunity to read is often all it takes to make a reader!
P	Reading aloud is portable, pleasurable and develops pre-literacy skills while preparing a child for reading.
Q	A good text, a good parent and quality books equal quality sharing time.
R	Read and read at a regular time and place while not reading then reading is important.
S	Show stories in a special place at a special time in a special way for a special person...and SHARE!
T	Take time to share thoughts, read time to teach and talk together.
U	Use your reading skills to develop understanding of the world and its unique experiences for a child.
V	A valuable activity that helps a child increase verbal expression, increase spoken vocabulary and venture into a wider world of experience.
W	A wide selection of books opens a world of words and wonder. Reading books about fathers is worth relationship between reader and child.
X	Remember people and typography become as familiar as cyphers and an operation you know well.
Y	"Y'all are special" is a great message for the reader and the child.
Z	ZIP to the library, book store, garage sale, thrift store or book sale to find a story story to bring joy to a child's life.