

OBJECTIVES

Practice

In your notebook, write the three questions using have + object + past participle and changing verb without correction:

1. Someone opened the door again. (open)
2. Someone started the computer last night. (start)
3. She left London to study the sciences every year. (leave)
4. She started to study the sciences every year. (start)
5. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
6. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
7. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
8. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
9. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
10. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
11. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
12. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
13. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
14. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
15. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
16. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
17. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
18. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
19. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)
20. She started to study the sciences in the first year of school. (start)

EXERCISE 2: Complete the sentences below and write your own sentences.

1. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
2. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
3. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
4. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
5. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
6. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
7. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
8. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
9. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
10. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
11. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
12. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
13. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
14. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
15. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
16. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
17. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
18. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
19. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)
20. I had never heard your name until I met you in London. (never)