

The statements in Column B are responses to the statements in Column A. For each item in column B, underline the word that carries the tone (jealous) stress. Then draw an arrow indicating the relationship between the statements.

A

B

1a. That's ridiculous! I said I thought you'd like it.

1b. That's reasonable. I thought you'd like it.

2a. You said it would be easy getting tickets.

I told you it would be difficult.

2b. I have no problems getting tickets.

I told you it would be difficult.

3a. You'll be late for the game if you don't get there now.

I should be there late.

3b. You'll be late for the game if you don't get there now.

I should be there late.

4a. Jack just gave me back the $100 he owes me.

It's about time he repaid me.

4b. Jack's repaid me $100 over a year later.

It's about time he repaid me.

5a. You should have been my friend when I was sad and helped me study for my exam.

No, she's always wanted to be a doctor.

5b. You should have been my friend when I was sad and helped me study.

No, she's always wanted to be a doctor.