

The main idea tells us what a paragraph or story is mostly about.

The supporting detail help to give more information about the main idea.

Think about a pizza as the main idea. Now think about the ingredients you would use as the supporting details. Without the ingredients, you wouldn't have a pizza. It's the same with Main Idea! Without the supporting details, you wouldn't have enough information to find a main idea.

Directions: Use the pizza ingredients to form some supporting details. Use the pizza crust (the big circle) as your main idea.
