Re: Application for the position of Aircraft Fueler

Mr. Crusoe,

The notification for the position of Aircraft Fueler in newjobsearch.com posted last week makes me write to you. I am interested in taking up the responsibility the ad talks about.

I would like to tell you that I have been working as an aircraft fueler from the past four years and know well the technicalities involved in the simple task which requires great precision.

Apart from the regular work profile that involves in being an aircraft fueler I had been selected for the mid-air fueling project by the U.S. Air Force because of my efficiency and perfect judgement as to how much fuel is required for travelling a certain distance. On the basis of my performance in these projects I was made a part of the training team for the Air Force. I also have a letter of recommendation from one of the command chief master sergeant.

I am fully confident that I can do justice to the job in your organization and wish to contribute to the best of my capabilities. Thank you Sir for your time. Hoping to hear from you soon.

Yours Truly,
(Signature)
Peter Robinson
