

Learning an abstract scientific process and how to get across that is big question that comes in every period that is covered. Learning those details about differences in the process of studying in general and learning English language in particular will be important for all students. ... individual plans to important role in English acquisition.

Finally, the different methods of learning to the different students comes in the learning itself as a result of their own ideas to learn. ... However, we should be aware that there are different styles of learning, different. We experience as motivating is a challenge all teachers face. In every classroom, students have their own way of learning that differs with others. ... students have to encourage them to study by finding suitable methods to make them get more interested in the subject.

Finally, we need to mention about the concept of learning and acquisition of learning. There are several reasons that differentiate English learning process:

The students' level: Students who have background knowledge/background have easy to get started with the class, they find them difficult to take the subject and keep up with others.

Treatment material: If there are too much things in the subject that they've studied or what students need to learn, it also creates learning study interruption.

Teacher class: Classes which put teacher talk and students listen just give us low result in learning.

Generally, to reduce these difficulties, teachers need to apply some solutions to motivate the student. The solution for level of their is, for instance, firstly getting them interested again in their teacher and the interest in your subject matter and then activities will more follow. Students always be friendly with learning students, simply so that they will suggest constructive feedback. If they suggest you, they will respect the class, and be motivated to participate in activities you give. Besides, teachers need to adapt methods that more easy. If the teacher can't read and don't write the subject themselves, then the children often don't like the class either. To keep yourself motivated, change your activities to things that you are excited about. Teachers have to try to communicate with student anymore it needs, that is afraid to talk about your interests outside of school. For example, if possible, use some type of media as a lot of your students, bring in some CD's and let them listen to music whenever they are working on projects. ...
