

A. Elaboration for The Three Billy Goats Gruff

SOURCE ONE:

Three-Goat: 1. There were three billy goats gruff. There was a little goat, a middle-sized goat and a big goat.

Three-Goat: 2. The billy goats called them hungry because they have not eaten.

Three-Goat: 3. So they want to cross the bridge to eat the grass on the other side of the hill.

Little Goat: I want to cross the bridge too.

Middle-sized Goat: Don't do it! The Troll is under the bridge. He will eat you up.

Little Goat: I don't know! It's very hungry.

Big Goat: All right. Be careful!

Three-Goat: 4. So the Little Billy goat goes first, trip, trap, trap-trap over the bridge.

Troll: Who's that crossing my bridge?

Little Billy Goat: It's only me, the little goat...

Troll: I'm eating the cheese and not you me.

Little Goat: Oh please don't eat me. Wait for my brother, the middle-sized goat. He's bigger than me.

Troll: All right. You can cross my bridge.

Three-Goat: 5. So the little goat crosses the bridge.

SOURCE 2:

Middle-sized Goat: The hungry too. Then he crosses the bridge.
