

- o Next, explain one or two of the opposing side's points to show how readers might object to your argument. Then, show how these arguments are not reasonable, not logical, or unconvincing. Be sure to explain your own viewpoint and why it is the best choice.

Final Steps: Review and Edit

- 1) Review that your reader can understand your argument. The reader should understand that all your arguments are strongly supported by appropriate language and by sufficient use of evidence (facts, statistics, examples, expert opinions, or even personal experience).
- 2) Do your research!
- 3) To increase the chances that your audience will agree with you, start each paragraph with ideas that both sides agree upon before arguing your case.
- 4) Show the other side's strongest arguments to defend against challenges from other readers or your audience.
- 5) To your audience, emphasize why your topic is important, summarize your arguments, and restate your position in the most convincing choice. Do not include new evidence or arguments.

Bibliography

Representative Essay: "Essay 1" (1st ed., 1st ed., 17 February 2015)

Writing Guide: "How to Write an Argumentative Essay" (1st ed., 17 February 2015)