

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew, written on a light green background. The text is arranged in a single line, starting with a small icon of a house or building on the left. The characters are dark and appear to be ink or a similar medium. The text is partially obscured by a grey bar at the bottom of the page.