Prepositional Phrases

A prepositional phrase begins with a preposition. A phrase is a group of words. Therefore, a prepositional phrase is a group of words that begins with a preposition.

Examples: on the boat
after the storm
from my dad
with his aunt
behind the shed

Note that the last word is something you can see (concrete noun). Some will end in a noun such as love that you can't see (abstract noun). A prepositional phrase may also end with me, him, her, us, them, you, it, or whom.

Directions: Write a preposition (that makes sense) to complete each prepositional phrase. Do not reuse any preposition.
