

EMERGENCY LETTER

[ I strongly suggest to NERMA not to call JTL Michigan Practice (Area 8432) ]

GREETING

Dear Law-abiding,

RECOMMENDATIONS
[ I suggest to the management ]

I read your letter in the advice column. It sounds as if your friend had a serious problem. I could only imagine how difficult it must be for you.

ADVICE

As I thought that I could make and give you some advice on how to handle the situation.

SECOND PARAGRAPH
[ I suggest to the
management ]

Your friend doesn't seem to be aware of committing a crime. If her identity becomes a matter she will get arrested by it and, if caught, she will definitely face prison. I would advise her to try and have a serious conversation with her. If you ever see together in a store and she attempts to cheat, try to stop her by calling a law. Maybe if she feels embarrassed she might have second thoughts about it and stop doing it again. If not, then it is clear to me that you should end the friendship. I suggest you reconsider how important this person is to you, because from what you mentioned about her attitude towards your concerns, it seems to me that she doesn't appreciate your friendship.

CONCLUSION
[ I suggest to the
management ]

I know it's a very difficult situation and you must take a life-changing decision, such as possibly ending a friendship. Before making any final choice, have a word with her first, give her a chance to understand that what she is doing is wrong. I hope my suggestions will help you.

RECOMMENDATIONS

I know it's a big decision but sometimes, every friend has a secret thing. Good luck, I hope everything turns out as you wish.

CLOSING

Yours faithfully,
Steve
