

Inside a Snow Cloud.

Color the picture.

1. The wind blows dirt into the cloud.

2. There is water vapor in the cloud and because it is cold the water and the dirt freeze together forming an ice crystal.

3. More water attaches and forms more crystals around the dirt center.

Finally when the ice crystal gets so heavy it falls to the ground, we call them snowflakes!