Dear Mr. Wang,

Thank you for your letter of Tuesday, September 10, 2008 regarding operations with credit limit of HK$4M. We understand your situation.

After your introduction, we have the problem with your order. The two drafts are off your order that included your purchase of 10,000 shares. After checking our secondary and equity information, I found that we have not a very sufficient and you 10,000 shares.

Since of Banking Rules, we cannot work as this is a company account. When accept the order, your preliminary balance of 10,000 shares. To help manage your investment, we may not be able to pay by deposit unless Bank of China account should open by Monday, September 15. If necessary, we will arrange to accept Bill of Exchange.

We will provide the needed data to resolve these stopping issues.

We thank you for your business, and look forward to your future orders.

Yours sincerely,

David Chen
Bank of China Manager
