

PAST CONTINUOUS

My name is John and last night while I was playing a game with my parents there was a knock at the door. While I was finishing the game with my father my mother answered the door. It was my friend Harry. My aunt asked him to come in. We talked for some time and then told her I was playing a strategy game with my dad. My aunt asked him to come in and join us. While I was waiting for my turn to play, Harry came into the room. I was glad to see her because she is my best friend. After we finished the game Harry and I went into the living room. Harry asked me what I was doing last night at 8:00. I told him I was studying for my math exam and asked him why he wanted to know. He told me that while I was studying at 8:00 he was playing hockey with Bob, one of our friends. He said that while Bob was playing hockey for half an hour he had, and while they were waiting for the ambulance to come he tried to phone me, but the line was busy. I suggested we go and visit Bob, and Harry thought it was a great idea.
