

Cases for the Defense:

Ms. A with her Fingers in the Lounge

Ms. A had a receipt from IGA showing that she bought cake and cake mix the day before. Her husband and son, say that she made a cake on the same day that Miss Brenda's was stolen. Ms A is INNOCENT.

Mr. P with the Knife in the Games Room

Mr. P was on the phone with Mr. G at the time that the cake was stolen. Mr. G has told the police that he did not hear Mr. P chewing. Mr. P is INNOCENT.

Ms. D with the Mixer in the Art Room

Ms. D was unable to produce an alibi. The crumbs at the entrance of the art room were tested and are from the stolen cake. Frosting from the cake and DNA that match's Ms. D's were found on the mixer. Ms D is GUILTY.

Mr. M with the Whisk in the Learning Center

Mr. M's doctor called. He is allergic to even the tiniest traces of sprinkles. If he had even smelled the cake, he would have instantly turned bright purple. Mr. M is INNOCENT.

Ms. K with the Spork in the Tech Center

The crumbs on Ms. K's shoulders were tested, and the lab learned that they were from a donut. Ms. K is INNOCENT.

Ms. L with the Spatula in the Teen Room

The frosting on Ms. L's spatula was dark chocolate. The frosting on the cake was milk chocolate. Ms. L is INNOCENT.