

Factors, multiples, Prime and Composite Numbers Quiz

Definitions Fill in the missing words to make the statements true. When necessary, circle the correct word choice.

A _____ is a number that can only be divided by one and itself.

We can use skip-counting to find the _____ of a number. A _____ is a number that is a product of two factors. There are a(n) ~~infinite~~/finite amount of these.

A _____ is a number that has three or more factors. Every even number except for _____ is this type of number.

_____ of a number are one of two numbers multiplied together to find the product of a number. There are a(n) ~~infinite~~/finite amount of these.

List all the factors of 10.

List all the factors of 30.