

Chapter 1 - From World War to World War II - 1914-1918

- 1914-1918: World War I - The first world war, fought in Europe, was a result of a complex set of alliances and rivalries between major powers.
- 1918-1919: The end of World War I - The war ended in 1918, but the peace process was not complete until 1919 with the signing of the Treaty of Versailles.
- 1919-1920: The League of Nations - The League of Nations was established in 1920 as a result of the Treaty of Versailles, but it failed to prevent the outbreak of World War II.

Business suggests early people may have been in the Americas around 10,000 years ago, but most thought they came later.

The Spanish Conquest

The first Spanish conquests were in the Americas, starting with the Aztecs in 1519. The Spanish conquistadors were looking for gold and silver, and they found it in the Americas. The Spanish conquests were a result of the desire for wealth and power, and they led to the destruction of many indigenous cultures.

Spain and the World

Spain's role in the world was significant, especially in the Americas. Spain discovered the Americas in 1492, and it was the first European country to establish colonies in the Americas. Spain's colonies in the Americas were a source of wealth and power for Spain, and they led to the development of a global empire.

The Spanish Conquest

In the 15th century, Spain became a major power in Europe. The Spanish conquests in the Americas were a result of the desire for wealth and power, and they led to the destruction of many indigenous cultures. Spain's colonies in the Americas were a source of wealth and power for Spain, and they led to the development of a global empire.

The Conquest of Mexico

In 1519, Hernán Cortés led a Spanish expedition to Mexico, and he conquered the Aztec Empire. The Spanish conquest of Mexico was a result of the desire for wealth and power, and it led to the destruction of the Aztec Empire. Spain's colonies in Mexico were a source of wealth and power for Spain, and they led to the development of a global empire.