

Friendly Letters – Practice Activities

---

A large rectangular box containing several horizontal lines for writing a letter. The lines are arranged in a way that suggests a standard letter format: a short line for the recipient's address, a line for the sender's address, a long line for the salutation, several long lines for the body of the letter, and two short lines for the closing and signature. The bottom right corner of the box is folded over, showing a grey shaded area.