

If looking at the nose, then
this smiling side
gets reported to
your right brain.

this frowning side
gets reported to
your left brain.

And, since your right brain is probably more sensitive to emotional expressions, you will likely think he's smiling.