

Crayola Crayons First Sold

On October 23, 1903, Crayola brand crayons were first sold. They cost a nickel a box for eight crayons: red, blue, yellow, green, violet, orange, black and brown. Alice Binney, wife of company founder Edwin Binney, came up with the name "Crayola" from "craie," the French word for chalk and "ola," from "oleaginous" which means oily.
