Let me tell you a little about my story. Since I was a child, I preferred to be a social science mathematician. Each week, my mom, my dad, my sister and I were going to visit some parents on his countryside and after driving for some time, my dad decided to stop in a little shop near the road so we could eat and relax for a while. In the shop, there was a small library, so I decided to flip some books and magazines. When I was going, I saw my favorite comic books that I couldn't believe my eyes. He smiled at me and then I told him about my dream. He told me that he had always dreamed about becoming a physician since he found math, but he eventually found his way in television. I was so moved that I started crying... I am a very sensitive person, you know. But he was very compassionate and told me he would try to help me. If everything was in my hands, but after some time I got a part job to start. It realized my big dream! Actually, I play a young girl who works in a very big factory. I am very happy and I have a lot of fun being what I always wanted to be: an actress!
