

Once upon a time there was a _____ who liked to _____ his friends. Everyday he would tell his friends to _____ him down to the river and bring their _____. They all wondered, "Why is he making us get off our _____ and take away our _____ of sleeping?"

One day, the _____ decided to ask the _____ guards to go down to the river and _____ the river. They followed him and took out the boat to _____ down river bank. They went very _____ and did not _____ the _____ of the mind. They didn't find anything and were very upset with the _____ and finally went home to the warm _____ of warm fires.

Next week, the _____ called his friends and the royal guards to come to the river because there were thieves stealing the _____. They did not believe him and stayed at home. The _____ was very worried because the kids would not be able to get their toys. He went down to the river to try and stop the thieves but the _____ of their dogs made him _____ with fear and run away. The thieves stole all the toys and the _____ burned his house.

Remember, do not play too many tricks or people will not believe you and help when there is real trouble.