

Are you sure you know exactly what your employees are doing on a computer during their working hours? Have you ever wondered if they are really pursuing what they are supposed to? By monitoring employee activity you will get a summary of how they spend their time at work. You will be able to identify those who are not really trying to do their best. What's more, you will be informed of any activities which could endanger your enterprise or jeopardize your company data in time.

- Intelligent Screen Recording
- KeyLogger
- Search Monitoring
- Print Monitoring