

THREE BRANCHES OF GOVERNMENT CHEAT SHEET!

EXECUTIVE BRANCH	JUDICIAL BRANCH	LEGISLATIVE BRANCH
• The President is in charge of this branch of government. • The head of this branch is the commander in chief of our armed forces. • This branch represents the country in talks with other countries. • This branch is in charge of the day-to-day affairs of the government. • The person who heads this branch can be elected to serve only two 4-year terms. • This branch carries out the laws of the country. • The head of this branch can veto a bill passed by Congress.	• This branch decides whether the country's laws are fair. • It is the branch that decides cases about the Constitution or the country's laws. • This branch decides cases between citizens of different states. • The top members of this branch are named by the President but must be confirmed by the Senate. • The members of this branch can serve for life. • This branch decides cases about treaties with other countries.	• It is the branch that makes laws to rule the land. • This branch is in charge of raising an army and a navy. • This branch controls trade with other countries. • It is the branch in charge of setting the country's laws. • This branch consists of two houses: the Senate and the House of Representatives. • It is the branch in charge of having money printed and coined. • It is the branch that has the power to declare war.

Reproduction © 2008