

Name _____

Date _____

Exercise 1: Structure of a Paragraph (Writing Activity)

Name:

Topic of Paragraph(s)	Paragraph(s) Topic	Paragraph
(I) Topic Sentence (Direct statement about topic and support details and topic sentence)	(I) Topic Sentence Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention – get your reader interested Topic sentence – supports your topic Attention more point A First support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A Second support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A
(II) General Subject	(II) General Subject Topic Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention more point A First support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A Second support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A
(III) More Subjects	(III) More Subjects Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention more point A First support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A Second support details explain point A Give information or an example about detail A Give more information about detail A
(IV) Conclusion	(IV) Conclusion	Recap your opening, but instead of rest your reader what you said about topic to reader to leave your reader with a questioning, or leave your reader with something to think about