

Name _____

Date _____

Exercise 1: Structure of a Paragraph (Writing Activity)

Name:

Topic of Paragraph (A)	Paragraph Structure (B)	Topic Sent
(I) Paper Machine (Direct support detail qualifier and support detail and topic sentence)	(I) Direct Support Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention – get your reader interested Topic sentence – establish your topic Attention more point A First support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A Second support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A
(II) General Subject	(II) General Subject Topic Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention more point A First support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A Second support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A
(III) Short Subjects	(III) Short Subject Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail Colleague Detail at the Detail to the Detail	Attention more point A First support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A Second support detail regular point A Give information or an example about detail B Give more information about detail A
(IV) Conclusions	(IV) Conclusions	Recapitulate your previous, but expand it – add your reader what you think about topic to reader to leave your reader with a good feeling, or leave your reader with something to think about