

Relapse Prevention Tools

By BILL DILLON

There are some relapse prevention tools that can assist us every day. Recovery is different, just as the process there are certain steps and skills that are intended to progress from a state of abstinence and move on into a life of recovery. Here are some voluntary tips and voluntary tools that have proven successful in maintaining sobriety.

1. They acknowledge that they had a problem.
2. They looked for help and support from reliable sources outside of themselves.
3. With that assistance, they took supportive steps were necessary in becoming abstinent, that is, to stop using alcohol and all mood-altering drugs.
4. Through the guidance of others, they discovered power, reachable goals, which then reward recovery and growth.
5. They then integrated the details of those goals into their daily lives and kept the process alive through consistent attention and effort.
6. They continue to find and utilize resources that the deeper the recovery experience by encouraging physical, mental, and spiritual growth and change.

Tools Needed To Stay Sober:

1. We must learn to identify triggers and express our feelings.
2. We must learn to identify triggers and express our feelings. 2. We learn to slow down and not let our emotions become overruling.
3. Avoid people places and things that can lead to temptation or undermine our recovery.
4. Learn to increase and practice new found problem solving skills
5. Learn how to take care of yourself by developing positive coping strategies.
6. Create a plan of action for relapse.

We hope you enjoyed reading about these simple but very effective relapse prevention tools.

For more information on this topic, contact Bill Dillon at 800-423-6261 or visit www.recoverytools.com.